Jean Zoglman gave a presentation regarding the impact of the Airport's financial status by the COVID-19 pandemic.

Air Service Marketing Update

Lt. Erwin Bleckley Memorial Proposal

Greg Zuercher, founding board member of the Bleckley Memorial, along with Doug Jacobs and Grant Schumaker spoke about Erwin Bleckley and honoring him. They proposed to display the 1918 DH4 aircraft here at the airport, which would include a bronze statue, the DH4 airplane and Bleckley's Medal of Honor. Director White provided numerous comments regarding the difficulties of displaying the plane inside the terminal, especially considering its large size. There is no floor space large enough to place the plane, and hanging a plane from the ceiling was never contemplated during the design or construction of the terminal from a structural capability standpoint. It would require a feasibility study to determine if that would be technically feasible. If it were possible, there is only one space in the building that might work without competing visually with the public art, advertising, or wayfinding signage. The plane and other materials cannot interfere with existing or future operational functions of the terminal. The far end of bag claim might be the only place it could work. Considerations need to be given to the look and appearance of the plane with respect to fitting in with the architecture and design on the terminal, and making sure that the aesthetics of the building aren't affected. The original terminal design team (HNTB architects and Dudley Williams's structural engineers) must do the study of feasibility, and the terminal construction contractor should do the installation if this is approved. But, the Airport doesn't have the funds to pay for any of the design or construction. So, the Bleckley committee must be responsible for all costs of the project. Mr. Zuercher said that a public fundraising effort would be started to come up with the money.

Motion by Ms. Page and second by Dr. Rosenberg to nonfinancially support the DH4 airplane memorial display at the Wichita Dwight D. Eisenhower Airport, not agreeing to a specific location at this point in time, and only if plane will fit and the engineering indicates it will work. Motion passed unanimously.
